

Students spread awareness on International Day of Non Violence.

Like every year, this year also the students of JSSPS observed 2nd October as Gandhi Jayanti- the birthday of the Father of our Nation (Motherland India). This day is termed as International Day of Non Violence. The school paid a special tribute to this great figure at the all school assembly in the morning.

Children being the pillars of a Nation's progressive development, we at JSSPS always strive to inculcate in our young hearts the values of patriotism, honesty, perseverance and tolerance. No stone is left unturned to provide our children with the opportunity of not only expressing the essence of their roots but also to showcase their love and gratitude for the unforgettable Heroes of our Motherland, India.

Four students of 9B students - Sree Narayan, Pranav Raj, Aditya Nayak and Subhasri Vijay students of grade 9 were happy to create a blog to inform and educate their peers on the importance of the day. The link to the blog is www:sreeaadhi07.wixsite.com/gandhijayanti. The link was shared to all sections of the school. The blog contained facts and important events that depicted the life of Mahatma Gandhi. The blog was well created which allowed students scope to know more facts about Mahatma Gandhi and his contribution to the history of our motherland.

The presentation followed by interactive sessions brought to light the love and respect these little children have for their 'Bapuji'- the Father of the Nation (India). It was really worthwhile to see the children voicing their opinions about non-violence.

They carried home the great thought which was practiced by Gandhiji – peaceful solution to every problem and tolerance being the key to success. The day really left a lasting impression in the minds of our budding heroes of the future.
