'Teletubbies' reboot trailer out and netizens are not thrilled with the new baby Sun

The little and innocent Teletubbies will soon make a comeback on your TV screens. Netflix has recently released the first trailer of their fourth-coming kids' show, a reboot of a classic 90’s sitcom.

The trailer takes us into the happy and colourful world of little Tinky Winky, Dipsy, Laa-Laa, and Po and their playful adventures. The show, which brought back many happy childhood memories, quickly became the talk of the internet.

While many netizens praised the trailer, there were some users who were just not happy with the little changes that had been made in the reboot, like the baby Sun.

If you have watched the show, you’ll know that each episode begins with baby Sun. And, like the original one, the new show also had a baby at the start of the show, but with a slight difference. In the new trailer, we see the cutout of a baby face floating in the sky instead of a sun that had a baby face infused in it.
On Thursday night, Rihanna dropped her brand new single 'Lift Me Up' - the first track from the highly anticipated Marvel film 'Black Panther: Wakanda Forever'. This is her first single in six years.

The song - a slow soulful number - is a tribute to the life and legacy of Chadwick Boseman who played Black Panther in the first film. The song has been written by Nigerian singer-songwriter Tems, Rihanna, top film composer Ludwig Goransson and director Ryan Coogler. It is one of two songs from the film, which premieres in theatres on November 11.

Few other details have been released about the song or the soundtrack album that Rihanna is said to be curated in a manner similar to the way Kendrick Lamar helmed the first film’s album. "After speaking with Ryan and hearing his direction for the film and the song, I wanted to write something that portrays a warm embrace from all the people that I’ve lost in my life," Tems said in a statement. "I tried to imagine what it would feel like if I could sing to them now and express how much I miss them."

She added, "Rihanna has been an inspiration to me so hearing her convey this song is a great honour."
The iconic Broadway musical 'Phantom Of The Opera' will be drawing its curtain for good in 2023. The musical has been Broadway's longest-running show and recently celebrated its 35th anniversary.

A spokesperson confirmed that the musical's final performance will take place on 18 February 2023. There has been a total of 13,925 performances at New York's Majestic Theatre.

"As a producer, you dream that a show will run forever. Indeed, my production of Andrew's 'Cats' proudly declared for decades 'Now and Forever'," producer Cameron Mackintosh said in a statement. "Yet 'Phantom' has surpassed that show's extraordinary Broadway run. But all shows do finally close."

The show made its debut in 1988 and since then has survived recessions, city riots, and a war. However, many feel the show could never fully recover from the 18-month long coronavirus shutdown.

The musical's box office grosses have fluctuated since reopening, hitting over $1m a week but also dipping to $850,000.

The show opened first in London in 1986 and subsequently staged regular shows from 1988. Since then the 'Phantom Of The Opera' has been adapted in 17 languages across the world and has travelled to 183 cities and viewed approximately by 145 million people.

MILAN: Serie A soccer player Pablo Mari has been discharged from hospital after he was stabbed in an attack in an Italian supermarket earlier this week, his club Monza said on Sunday. Mari faces at least two months out of the game after an operation on Friday for stab wounds. The attack left one man dead and many injured.

Milan’s Niguarda hospital said its trauma team had reconstructed two muscles in the back of the 29-year-old Spanish centre-back, who is on loan at Monza from Premier League club Arsenal. “Pablo Mari was discharged from the hospital this morning, returned home and now begins a period of absolute rest,” the club said in a statement, also thanking the staff at the hospital.
When history asks who scored the worst goal in football, the answer is Diego Maradona. But the same history also states that it was Maradona who also scored the best goal in football. Confused? No, don’t be. For this, we need to go back to where it happened and the circumstances surrounding the two goals. Yes, both these goals came in the same game and have never been forgotten.

Rewind to 1986. It was the World Cup quarterfinal between Argentina and England. Maradona was leading the Argentinians and he was determined to go the distance. Little did one know that this match would take him to immortality.

The first half saw no goals from either end. Then in the 51st minute, the deadlock was broken. Maradona passed the ball diagonally to Jorge Valdano and continued his run towards the goal. But the pass missed Valdano and was intercepted by Steve Hodge who then tried to hook the ball clear but missed it. It looped into the penalty area and Maradona was after it as he had not stopped running. Keeper Peter Shilton ran out to punch it clear but was beaten to it by Maradona. The Argentine was 8 inches shorter than the towering Englishman but was able to put it over the keeper with his left hand. The ball entered the goal. The referee allowed it. Maradona later said it was scored a little with the head of Maradona and a little with the hand of God. It became known as the Hand of God from then on. England had a right to feel let down.
Surya Kumar Yadav’s 68 off 40 balls on bouncy Perth track against South Africa has wowed Gautam Gambhir into terming it as the “best T20 innings by an Indian”. Ravi Shastri would add that “without Suryakumar’s innings, India would have been bowled out under 100 runs.”

Sunil Gavaskar laid the blame on Pakistan’s support staff for not backing their team when down, as a reason why the team has suffered back-to-back defeats at the T20 World Cup currently being held in Australia.

Pakistan suffered a last-ball loss to India – a loss that could demoralise any team. That loss, against a team considered as the favourites to reach the semi-finals, was followed by a shock result against Zimbabwe.

Chasing 131 at Perth, the Pakistan batting collapsed. At one point, all that they required was 43 runs of 39 deliveries with seven wickets in hand. And then disaster struck. A batting collapse saw them lose against Zimbabwe by a solitary run. Gavaskar termed that result as a lack of encouragement by the team management on the players – one that led to an immediate collapse after a demoralising last-gasp loss to India.
Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma, are arguably two of the biggest names in Indian cricket over the past decade. While Kohli has cemented his place as a modern great, Rohit has also earned accolades. However, ever since Kohli stepped down as the captain of the team, the relationship between the two has been a subject of continuous scrutiny. But despite all the probes, two very different personalities do have one common goal and that is excellence. In a recent interaction on Star Sports, Virat Kohli was asked about the equation with his captain to which he said, “We speak about how to win the big tournament. It creates an exciting atmosphere as well.”
TWITTER FIRES MORE THAN 90% OF INDIA STAFF, LEAVING JUST A DOZEN

Twitter Inc. fired more than 90 per cent of its staff in India over the weekend - part of global reductions by new owner Elon Musk - severely depleting its engineering and product staff in a potential growth market.

The company employed just over 200 people in India, and the cuts left it with just about a dozen staff, people familiar with the matter said, asking not to be named because of the sensitivity of the matter.

India is a key growth engine for global internet companies such as Twitter, Meta Platforms Inc. and Alphabet Inc.’s Google, which are relying on its large potential pool of new online users. Yet the companies are also facing increasingly strict content regulations aimed at reining in big tech firms in the country.
About 70% of the jobs cut in India were from the product and engineering team which worked on a global mandate, one of the people said. Positions were also slashed across functions including marketing, public policy and corporate communications, the people said. Globally, San Francisco, California-based Twitter reduced its headcount by about half or roughly 3,700 workers.
UAE residents woke up on Monday morning to a world where nearly all Covid safety restrictions have been removed. Things are now back to how they were before the pandemic disrupted normal life almost three years ago.

Addressing the public via a virtual briefing on Sunday, the National Emergency Crisis and Disasters Management Authority (NCEMA) further eased mask and Covid testing rules for residents and tourists. Wearing masks is now optional in all open and closed facilities, including places of worship and mosques.

The only three Covid rules that remain as on November 7 are:

- Masks remain mandatory in health facilities and centres for people of determination
- The five-day isolation period for those infected with Covid-19 will continue to be implemented
- Organisers of sporting events and activities may request Covid tests or vaccination certificates “according to the type or importance of the activity”.

3 COVID RULES THAT REMAIN AS NEARLY ALL RESTRICTIONS ARE EASED
The UAE will remain a supplier of oil and gas for "as long as the world is in need", UAE President, His Highness Sheikh Mohamed bin Zayed Al Nahyan, said at the start of the COP27 summit in Egypt on Monday.

"The UAE is considered a responsible supplier of energy, and it will continue playing this role for as long as the world is in need of oil and gas," he added.

"Oil and gas in the UAE is among the least carbon intensive around the world and we will continue to focus on lowering carbon emissions emanating from this sector."

Egypt’s Conference of the Parties (COP) is the latest of decades of U.N. talks to try to curb climate change caused by the use of fossil fuels.

Next year’s COP28 summit will be hosted by the UAE in Dubai’s Expo City and will assess the implementation of the 2015 Paris climate agreement that seeks to limit to global warming to 1.5 degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels. The UAE president said his country was among the first in the Gulf region to announce a plan for carbon neutrality by 2050 and last week signed a $100 billion agreement with the United States with the goal of adding 100 gigawatts of renewable energy globally by 2035.
Indian expat Ajmal Poyakkara Mahamood caught the attention of residents at the Dubai Ride this year for recreating an iconic picture from India’s first rocket launch.

The Dubai resident dressed up in a white shirt and grey pants carried a cone-like object on the back of his cycle in memory of the 1963 photograph which showed India’s first space rocket being transported for its launch from Thumba in Kerala.

"I am a Keralite and I wanted to pay homage to my land and its people," said Ajmal. "It was in November 1963 that the rocket was launched from Thumba. I also wanted to highlight how bicycles have always been an integral part of people’s lives, be it for daily activities or history-altering events like the rocket launch."
MISSILE TESTS WERE PRACTICE TO ATTACK SOUTH, US

North Korea’s military said Monday its recent barrage of missile tests were practices to “mercilessly” strike key South Korean and US targets such as airbases and operation command systems with a variety of missiles that likely included nuclear-capable weapons.

The North’s announcement underscored leader Kim Jong Un’s determination not to back down in the face of his rivals’ push to expand their military exercises. But some experts say Kim also used their drills as an excuse to modernise his nuclear arsenal and increase his leverage in future dealings with Washington and Seoul.

North Korea fired dozens of missiles and flew warplanes toward the sea last week _ triggering evacuation alerts in some South Korean and Japanese areas _ in protest of massive US-South Korean air force drills that the North views as an invasion rehearsal.

US and South Korean officials responded they would further enhance their joint training events and warned the North that the use of nuclear weapons would result in the end of Kim’s regime.

PUMPKIN SPICED LATTE

Espresso:
We prefer using espresso in the latte for that stronger coffee flavor.

Milk: for that delicious, creamy element. Feel free to use any milk you’d like, preferably one that froths well. We love using oat milk, and you can easily make it yourself with our tutorial here!

Pumpkin flavor:
we’re using real deal pumpkin puree, plus some pumpkin pie spice to get all of that fall flavor. It’s a great way to use up any extra canned pumpkin or to make your own.

Sweetener:
we’re just using 1–2 tablespoons of pure maple syrup to naturally sweeten the pumpkin spice latte. You’ll also want to add some vanilla extract to bring out the sweet flavors.
Optional: feel free to add some whipped cream on top for the perfect treat!
